The Massachusetts Office for Refugees and Immigrants (ORI) administers the Massachusetts Refugee Resettlement Program (MRRP) through partnerships with sister state agencies, resettlement agencies, and ethnic and community-based organizations, which have the capacity to serve the culturally and linguistically diverse needs of newcomer populations. ORI coordinates and supervises the administration of the services under the MRRP for refugees, including the provision of cash and medical assistance, social adjustment services, refugee school impact and youth mentoring, health promotion, English language skills development, employment preparation and placement services, and care for the unaccompanied refugee minors. Most of ORI's programs supported by funding from the Office of Refugee Resettlement (ORR).

In order to access ORR-ORI services and benefits, individuals and families must provide acceptable documentation demonstrating one of the immigration statuses for the ORR-eligible populations. Documents will be presented to case managers at any of the below Resettlement Agencies (RAs):

- Ascentria Care Alliance (Ascentria)
- Catholic Charities Archdiocese of Boston (CCAB)

March 2022

- Catholic Charities Agency of Springfield (CCS)
- International Institute of New England (IINE)

<https://www.mass.gov/doc/ori-community-providers-directory/download>

ORR Policy Letter 16-01 outlines: (1) the statuses and documents that confer eligibility for Refugee Resettlement Program benefits; (2) the documentation that is needed to prove an individual is eligible; and (3) a suggested process for making eligibility determinations. This policy includes documents that provide proof of these statuses. These documents may or may not provide proof of identity, nationality, or entry date. For further reference, visit <https://www.acf.hhs.gov/orr/policy-guidance/status-and-documentation-requirements-orr-refugee-resettlement-program>

Along with confirming status and eligibility determinations, individuals and families must include confirmation of identity, the date that an individual initially became eligible for benefits (i.e., "entry" date) and, in cases involving Cuban and Haitian entrants and Iraqi and Afghan Special Immigrants, nationality. More than one piece of documentation may be needed to make all these determinations.

Once eligibility is determined, staff at Resettlement Agencies will provide the individual or family with the following services: Program Orientation; creation of detailed Self-Sufficiency Plans; Case Management; Referrals to Medical and Mental/Behavioral Case Management; school enrollment, LGBTQ+ Support Services; Community resource navigation and utilization for elderly clients, underserved clients, survivors of torture & trauma, single-parent households, and clients directly affected by COVID-19; transportation and accompaniment to scheduled appointments; assistance with understanding, accessing, and maintaining social services benefits; extended and specialized cultural orientation specific to client's needs; referrals to internal and external services (local community resources); access to translation and interpretation services; volunteer support for clients, including mentorship; emergency funding assistance for clients unable to access other resources, including support for housing, medical costs, and immigration services; group services (cultural and gender-based support groups, group cultural orientation, art therapy, youth education, digital literacy, and mental health and wellness programming); English for Employment Education with multiple levels; employability and employment services; curriculum development; referrals to internal or external Vocational Skill Trainings; referrals to Higher Education, including Community Colleges; assistance with job development and placement; employment follow-up assistance and post-employment services for career laddering.

Immigration status information is listed in Section 11 and on page 23 of the application. You can also find it at www.mass.gov/masshealth.

D5. MA Adult Education Services

MA Department of Elementary and Secondary Education/Adult and Community Learning Services

The Massachusetts Department of Elementary and Secondary Education/Adult and Community Learning Services funds programs to establish free access to basic adult education services in public school systems, public agencies, and community-based organizations across the State. These services are for residents of the Commonwealth aged 16 or older. Services are designed to enhance an individual’s literacy skills—their ability to read, write, and speak English—and to compute and solve problems at the levels of proficiency needed to function as parents/family members, workers, and members of the community. Eligible agencies that receive funds from DESE are encouraged to address the needs of clients with learning disabilities. Programs also offer activities that prepare students to pass a high school equivalency assessment and move on to post-secondary education or vocational training and/or acquiring or advancing in employment.

To learn where adult education programs are located in MA, please access a streamlined directory in the link below or download a detailed directory that includes program descriptions, site information, and program websites.
