Pathways Program for Parents at FCSN Trainings

Below is a list of training sessions with descriptions being offered by FCSN. There are no scheduled dates for these trainings and are by request only.

Training	Description
Advancing your Student's Voice throughout the IEP	The new IEP form
Crafting Effective Student and Parent Concerns	Learn some tips and tools for writing student and parent concerns and practice writing a concerns statement
Introduction to the New IEP Form	In this workshop we'll go through each page of the new IEP form, which Massachusetts school districts are starting to use Fall 2024. We'll discuss why the IEP form was updated, the changes that were made, and areas for student and parent input and team collaboration.
Understanding Goals: From Objectives and Benchmarks to Effective Progress
Driving Meaningful Accommodations vs Instructional Modifications
What is Family Engagement?	This brief presentation defines family engagement, discusses the benefits of family engagement, and reviews barriers to family engagement.
FCSN Resources: (is this the Welcome to the Federation workshop?)	Brief overview of the resources and supports the Federation offers to families and the professionals who partner with families.
How to Advocate for Your Child (2020)	Effective advocacy is a learned art. Parents will learn soft skills, such as how to prioritize and collaborate, to best advocate for their child. The workshop will also address conflict and barriers to effective communication.
Basic Rights: Evaluation and Eligibility	Join us for a comprehensive overview of special education laws and procedures. This presentation covers the special education process, including referrals, evaluations, eligibility, IEPs, services, placement, and parents' rights in dispute resolution.

Basic Rights: Understanding the IEP	This presentation aims to help families gain a deeper understanding of the IEP document, including its importance, how its developed, what goes in each section, and parents' options when receiving a proposed IEP for resolving disputes.
Basic Rights: Transition Planning	This presentation covers transition planning for students age 14-22. We'll discuss the legal right to transition services, why transition planning is important, what it looks like in the IEP, and the roles of students and parents.
Bullying: What Parents Need to Know	This presentation addresses what a bullying is, the school's legal obligation to prevent and address bullying, some strategies and tools for dealing with bullying, and how to address bullying in the IEP. We welcome both parents and professionals to join us for this important discussion.
Social Emotional Learning	This presentation provides an introduction to social emotional learning. We will dive into what social emotional learning is, why it is important, and how it is applied in the classroom and the IEP.
Suspension & Discipline in Special Education	This presentation discusses school discipline, including the types of rule violations, the rights of students and parents, types of suspensions, alternatives to suspension, and the legal protections for students on IEPs.
Your Voice, Your IEP	For Students! Join us for a workshop that's all about how you can be part of the IEP process! Learn why your input matters and discover ways to actively participate in your IEP meetings to ensure your needs and goals are front and center.
Developmental Childhood Trauma and the Impact on Academic Performance	The results of developmental trauma on the developing neurology of young children are examined especially as it impacts the learning process. Also discussed are the life outcomes of these children, as evidenced by the ongoing Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACE) Study.
Trauma Sensitive IEPs	The most powerful tool of the IDEA is the Individualized Educational Plan (IEP). Certain parts of the IEP can be emphasized to allow skill building and ensure academic progress for students with developmental trauma. Among the topics discussed are trauma informed evaluations, "PLEP B," writing measurable social/emotional goals, and appropriate transition planning.
School Options & Special Education	Birds-eye view of special education, key points for applications in different types of school environments, where to go for help when problems arise
Planning for College	Students with disabilities need to self-identify that they have a disability and self-advocate for reasonable accommodations at a postsecondary institution. This workshop covers the rights and responsibilities of students in college settings.
